BULLETIN No. 51

LAST CALL FOR THE TRAIL RIDE OF 1938

Lest we forget! — or put it off till the last minute, and that often means too late! — this is to remind all interested that reservations for the Trail Ride of 1938 should be made NOW, as we have to advise Claude Brewster and Ed. Ogan how many horses they have to supply and how many riders to feed. President R. H. Palenske is planning to go over the route to select campsites early in July. Duffle for the pack train must be ready for collection on the afternoon of July 28th at Banff, so that everything can be ready when we ride into our first camp on the 29th. Pow Wow will be at the West End of Lake Minnewanka on the evening of August 2nd. A limited number of sleeping bags are still available for rent at $5. for the Trail Ride.

TRAIL RIDES FOR MILEAGE

It often happens that intending Trail Riders cannot fit in their dates so as to coincide with the Official Trail Ride, while others wish to increase their mileage by supplementary rides. For these the following are three suggestions:—

1) A six day ride called the Glacial Lakes Circle Trail Ride starting from Lake Louise and taking in Wapta Lodge, Lake O'Hara, Lake McArthur, the Ottertail River, with panorama of Mount Goodsir, Emerald Lake, Yoho Lodge, Twin Falls, Burgess Pass and Field. The overnight accommodation is sometimes a Lodge and sometimes under canvas. The outfitting is in the capable hands of Pat Brewster, and parties will leave Lake Louise each Wednesday morning during July and August, or any other day during these months, for a minimum party of two people. The all-expense rate, exclusive of breakfast on the first day and dinner on the sixth day, is $67.50.

2) A two weeks' Trail Ride organized by the Kananaskis Dude Ranche, leaving Seebe on August 6th and travelling up by the Kananaskis River Trail past Kananaskis Lake and North Kananaskis Pass to the Royal Group of Mountains and Palliser Pass, White Man's Pass, Marvel Lake and Mount Assiniboine. Here follows a description of the route after leaving Kananaskis Lakes:

Leaving the lakes we climb rapidly to the North Kananaskis Pass. On the pass Mt. Sir Douglas (11,174 ft.) seems to tower directly over us. Maude Lake with its summit reflections and coloring is fascinating as all summit lakes are. Looking from the summit, over the sheer cliffs of the pass, the Palliser Valley seems almost underneath us. The trail seems to actually drop away in front of us as we travel to the valley below. The climb to, and the view from, Palliser Pass has its own distinctive beauty. From its summit, looking northward along the Spray River to the Spray and Kananaskis Ranges, one sees many small glaciers with tiny lakes nestling at their bases. The Spray Valley is wide and green with mountains over 10,000 feet viewed in the distance.

With field glasses one may see moose roaming the valley.

The trip over colorful White Man's Pass brings to mind the early pioneering and prospecting days. This is the trail that was used by the old-time prospectors in their search for gold, and by the early trappers. The Indian legend of the pass is the story of a white man with his wife and baby, found by the Indians in a starving condition, but still struggling and fighting their way along the trail towards their goal. Hence, the pass was named by the Indians White Man's Pass, and the mountains on either side White Man and Red Man Mountains.

In order to gain the finest view from Wonder Pass and not cover the same territory twice, we approach Assiniboine Mountain over a trail branching from that usually taken. This enables us to leave Assiniboine over Wonder Pass where we get that breath-taking view of Marvel Lake. As we wind on down the trail we see Terrapin and Gloria Lakes. They are all small lakes, but so entrancingly colored that it seems almost unbelievable that so much beauty and color could be crowded into such a narrow valley. Wonder Pass with its tiny lakes and little streams, taking on changing colors with the sun and shadows, seems almost at the top of the surrounding mountains.

Cost of trip - $150.00.

3) A three weeks' Trail Ride to the Columbia Icefields, starting on August 5th, organized by Claude Brewster, who writes as follows!

"One of the most interesting and exciting parts of the trip is fording the many rivers. The Saskatchewan River with its weird, low-rimbling, warning voice, is a real he-man affair, as it goes tumbling and heaving over its shifting and rocky bed, through that un-tamed silent valley. Even the guides have great respect for the Saskatchewan River when it is running banks full and over. The Howse River, although the deepest is the easiest to ford on account of its smooth sandy bottom. The Mistaya requires the most care in fording because of its rolling and rocking bottom. Before you are across the Mistaya you and your horse and your saddle seem to be rolling and rocking with it. However, as it is a very narrow stream it is soon crossed. On fording days everyone is keyed-up to almost breaking point, but once across guides and all take one long breath, and back come the happy-go-lucky smiles once more. Fording these rivers and streams is not actually dangerous, but extremely exciting and lots of fun.

"When and where we ford the rivers all depends on the rivers themselves. If they are too high over their banks we must, maybe, make camp for the night and cross very early in the morning when the water is lower. One day, in a heavy rain, when we arrived at the Siffleur River, intending to camp for the night, we found it a raging torrent. We were afraid if it kept on raining we might not be able to ford for days, so crossed that night. That was the most exciting fording of all. The joke was on us as it stopped raining shortly after we were across; the sun was shining beautifully the next morning, and the water was much lower.

"The Columbia Icefields have the greatest attraction for most people. We should camp there for at least two days. There is a wonderful camp site with crunchy summit at the foot of Castleguard Glacier. These icefields are immense. They cover an area of over 100 square miles; the average elevation being between 9,500 and 10,000 feet. This makes them about 3,000 feet above timber line. Castleguard Mountain is 10,096 feet above sea level. The many gleaming glacier peaks to be seen from the top of Castleguard are considered one of the greatest panoramic views in the world.

"There is a mysterious underground river which forms a weird cave. No one seems to know where this river comes from, but it gushes out of the ground high up on a cliff, only to drop in a rainbow falls to the valley below. Travelling up Alexandra River to the Icefields we pass Castleguard falls, with its great volume of water. Mount Spring Rice and Alexandra Mountain with their peaks shimmering in the sunlight are especially beautiful. Columbia Mountain, the second highest peak of the main range is 12,294 feet. This whole region is most magnificent. Isabel Lake with the jagged mountains surrounding it and Glacier Lake with the blue ice sliding to its very waters are both quite distinctive in their settings.

"Those who made the trip last summer were thrilled with gaily coloured Jonas Shoulder. Someone must have dumped immense paint pots over his shoulder to have left such a riot of colors. The Brazeau Mountains are also vividly and almost daintily coloured. They tell me there is "gold in them thar hills" which washes down into the Brazeau River where placer mining is done. But, if you would rather collect fossils you may find them along Dolomite Creek."

Cost of trip - $200.00.

HARDENING UP

Trail Riders wishing to harden up before the actual Ride are once more offered a special rate by Mrs. Bill Brewster at the Kananaskis Dude Ranche, Seebe, Alberta, — about forty miles East of Banff. As so many enquiries are made as to the accommodation, etc., the following information is supplied by Mrs. Brewster:

The ranch house contains the living room, dining room, kitchen and a few bedrooms. The other accommodations are in log cabins. Although everything is quite plain and simple at the ranch it is equipped with the necessities for actual comfort, such as bath, shower, electrical lights, twin beds, little stoves in the cabins and a large fire place in the living room.

How many can the ranch accommodate? The ranch can accommodate about 35 guests. The number accommodated depends on the number of private rooms desired.

Will young girls be well cared for if sent to the ranch unchaperoned? Yes. So far we have had no trouble at all with young girls sent to the ranch alone. Young people especially enjoy learning to "rope", throw the Diamond Hitch, "jingling" the saddle horses night and morning, "wrangling" with the cowboys for a round-up and corralling the young horses for branding and breaking.

What is the country surrounding the ranch like? Is it mountainous or prairie country and what is the riding like?

The country surrounding the ranch is especially lovely, and, the scenery being so varied, it makes an almost perfect riding district. One can get practically all kinds of riding, either over trails into the high mountain sections, through the foothill country on the Stoney Indian Reservation, along lake and river shores, through forests, or across wide, open, grassy plateaus. The ranch being situated in the Forest Reserve and adjoining the Stoney Indian Reservation, we are not bothered with fences or gates to open.

Why do you advocate riding for at least a week before starting on a trail trip?

Riding is like any other exercise. It should be worked up to gradually if one does not wish to become stiff and sore the first few days. By taking a short ride the first day and gradually lengthening the rides each day, almost anyone can ride 15 or 20 miles a day by the end of a week's time and still come in smiling. Although we have always advocated this method for hardening the muscles used in riding, we did not realize just how much help it does give until several of the Trail Riders told us last summer how much it had helped them to make the first two days of the Trail Ride just as easy and enjoyable as the last three. It not only helps one physically, but at the ranch everyone seems to so quickly enter into the spirit of the care-free outdoor life.

Another advantage in coming to the ranch is that one may be suited to a horse and get a saddle that fits before starting off on the trail. It is nice too, to become acquainted with the other Trail Riders at the ranch and to get to know Claude and Ruth and some of the guides who will do their best to give all a happy five days on the trail.

Ranch guests are permitted to count the mileage ridden at the ranch to help secure their Trail Ride buttons. Before many days of riding, everyone seems to be working pretty hard for mileage.

Every evening there is quite a scramble right after dinner to get all of this mileage checked up accurately. Everyone, with pencil and paper in their hands, crowds into the little living room. They perch on the chairs, floor, tables and even piano and begin shouting "How far did we go today?" "Claude, how many miles to Cheenake Lake", "Missie, what's the name of that place we went to today, and how many miles did we ride". And then someone shouts "Only 10 miles." "Oh, Heavens, it must be farther than that", "It seemed like 25 to me." And on it goes until someone comes in at the door and asks "Who wants to see Alvin ride a bucking horse at the big corral?" With that you can't see those mileage hounds (as they are called at the ranch) for dust, as they head for the corral. Soon they are all sitting on the top rail of the corral and, maybe, sadly wondering just how many miles they must cover before they can tackle "The Strawberry Roan."

HINTS FOR THE ANNUAL TRAIL RIDE

By Lt.-Col. P. A. MOORE

So many letters of enquiry are sent on the subject of equipment that we once more print the advice given by our Ex-President and most experienced of Trail Riders, Lt.-Col. P. A. Moore.

OUTFIT

A hat that will shed rain. Unless colored glasses are worn, often a brim to the hat is desirable especially when the sun is ahead.

A shirt – flannel or buckskin. It is a sort of relief to keep away from the much over-worn khaki. Light mackinaw, in plaids, adds color to the general scheme and is correct.

Riding breeches or the old-fashioned golf knickers with the cuff that prevents them from working up. The latter are admirable as they give more freedom to the knees. "Plus Fours" are useless as they tend to "crawl up and bunch." Overalls are preferred by many and are correct, but not de rigueur as on a dude ranch.

High laced boots are the best for all-round wear as they protect the legs from brush, snags, etc., and can easily be taken off or put on even if wet. The conventional riding boot is not so good, as often it requires all the guides to get them off at night, and it must also be remembered that you have to get them on again in the morning. Puttees or leather leggings are very good and will be found comfortable also. The boots should be lightly hob-nailed, as smooth soles become slippery when walking in grass or on side hills.

A coat of wool or leather for warmth and as a windbreak is necessary. Some prefer a sweater, but a garment that will protect against wind is the best.

A slicker or blanket coat – the latter is preferable and you can use it as a pillow also – that will shed rain is absolutely necessary. Be sure to have this tied on the saddle. It is no good in the pack. Of course, if you are a woman, there may be some Sir Walter Raleigh in the outfit, but don't overbid your hand.

A large silk handkerchief adds atmosphere to your tout ensemble, and, what is more, is useful in many ways – you will find this out for yourself.

A waterproof match box. It is just as well to have this filled with matches, which should be kept as a reserve. For your daily supply carry another box. BE SURE YOU PUT OUT THE LIGHTED MATCH BEFORE YOU TOSS IT CARELESSLY AWAY. YOUR CIGARETTE END SHOULD BE TREATED IN THE SAME WAY. You are travelling in the woods and the leaves are more inflammable than the sidewalks of New York.

A knife – large pocket or hunting knife fastened to the belt.

Chaps and spurs are worn by many but are not necessary. Incidentally, these should be taken off when you are through riding. Walking around in spurs and chaps when your horse is turned out is about as sensible as wearing a buffalo coat in a Turkish bath. It is one of the by-products of the "pitchers" featured by movie stars and Montgomery-Ward cowboys.

A tin or enamel cup of large size is useful and should be carried on the saddle. It is also necessary as a toothbrush mug, as it is not trail etiquette to use the ones carried for tea and coffee.

EQUIPMENT

A sleeping bag is the best arrangement for a bed, and a down bag is the best of all. A light pneumatic mattress is most comfortable for those who feel that they can afford it, especially when spruce boughs are scarce. It also saves the natural beauty of the trees.

For extras the following are suggested: Toilet articles, extra flannel shirt, flashlight, six pocket handkerchiefs, two pairs of socks or stockings and a pair of light shoes or sneakers for camp wear. Moccasins are useless as the ground is often damp.

Don't carry too much. If your extra clothing can be rolled up in your sleeping bag, so much the better. This gives you but one bag to look after. A waterproof bag to slip on over the whole kit shows the wisdom of the serpent.

Putnam and Gordon Brinley, Trail Rider authors of the new book "Away to the Canadian Rockies and British Columbia"
(published by Dodd-Mead in the United States and McClelland and Stewart in Canada)

A TRAIL RIDER'S CLASSIC

Trail Riders will be particularly interested in the new book by Putnam and Gordon Brinley, which Dodd-Mead are publishing under the title of "Away to the Canadian Rockies and British Columbia." This is in the series of "Away" books which have struck a new note in travel literature, with the result that they have found a very large public. This goes one better than the previous volumes by having a number of colour plates supplementing the black and whites, one of the colour plates depicting the last year's Trail Rider Camp in Brewster Creek. Those who were on that ride can surely never forget the tall, genial figure of the artist, Putnam Brinley, and the altogether charming personality of the writer, Gordon Brinley, whose recitations of her own lyrics gave us some of the most thrilling moments round the camp fire.

The description of the Trail Ride take up three whole chapters, and a fascinating chapter it is — bringing back to mind the story of five wonderful days. It would be unfair to the authors to quote more than a few paragraphs, for this is a book that every Trail Rider should buy — but some idea of the happy style of the writer may be gathered from the description of the arrival at the first camp in Brewster Creek:

"It was after five o'clock when out of great mist loomed a grove of great trees with ruddy trunks rising straight up to rich green leafage — Engelmann's spruce! The sight brought refreshment to every sense. Riding into the grove between the great trunks of the trees, I caught sight of a newly built corral, and beyond, through the leafage, white cones of tepees rising in a pattern that took my mind back to the Indian encampment at Banff seen in the moonlight seven nights ago.

"Camp workers were everywhere at once, unpacking horses, helping riders to find their quarters and putting into their hands the right duffle, hurrying to get all settled before darkness should fall. I marvelled at the guides' endurance and good nature.

"In the tepee to which I was assigned, with two other ladies, I laid my sleeping-bag on spruce boughs that had been cut and piled, ready for use.

"Skies suddenly cleared about nine o'clock, and a half hour later I slipped into my sleeping-bag and lay looking up at a star that seemed to be looking straight down at me; marvelling, until I fell asleep, that a tepee could be so comfortable a place to spend the night.

"Blue sky burning through the tepee's open top waked me and my companions before six o'clock of our second day. And never shall I forget the beauty of that morning. Quickly polishing my face with alcohol, then cold cream, I topped off with a dash of comforting powder and stepped forth into an enchanting world.

"White tepees like mushrooms rested in the green of a watered glade. Behind us on the west a green flank of mountain, high upon which our horses were grazing, rose steeply to the sky. A quarter of a mile from where I stood, Brewster Creek wound through the green bottom, beside it cook tents and fires. Over the peaks of the eastern mountains the sun was not yet visible, but radiance of golden light filled all the scene."

Into the picture come Carl Rungius, President R. H. Palenske, Colonel and Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Claude Brewster, Allan Crawford, Leola and Mona Watson, Ida Sandman, Chester and Paul, guides, Dan McCowan, Erling Strom, Mrs. Pat Brewster, Jean Hembroff, Howard Sibbald and the Secretary — all of whom should feel that they have been immortalized in three pages. The description closes with the reproduction of the marvelous poem which Gordon Brinley recited at the closing Pow-Wow entitled "Forest Rangers."

"Away to the Canadian Rockies and British Columbia" is published in the United States by Dodd-Mead, and in Canada by McClelland and Stewart.
